

POLICY MEMORANDUM

No. II-17

Consulting

University regulations provide for consultation as a means of professional improvement and community service. Consulting activities are permitted which:

- are related to the professional interest and improvement of the faculty member;
- are in the best interest of the University; and
- do not constitute a conflict of interest.

Time spent in consultation shall not interfere with regular duties. No individual will devote, on an average, more than one day per week to such activities. Each department and unit shall make an annual report to the provost indicating the aggregate time and compensation for each individual involved.
